- As traders are eyeing 13000 levels in the Nov expiry, Nifty gained 67 points to end at 12926. It touched a fresh high of 12968 but closed just a shadow off it.
- For past five days, it has been trading inside this 200 point range. A long lower shadow was formed as index searched for the highest closing. The rally has broad based further in to mid and small cap stocks. With Nifty firmly trading at new highs decisively and not giving up anything indicates that the underlying strength is set to take it further higher.
- Immediately, 13000 is expected to act as a psychological barrier. It looks like that the index could be seen consolidating inside the prevailing trading range for next few days and then breakout decisively past 13000 and move towards 13200 range
- On the lower side, 12890-12825 act as near term support levels.
