Rollover analysis for April 2023 series

VIEW:

Domestic equity indices witnessed selling pressure through the March Expiry. March has been the fourth consecutive month that witnessed decline. There are many factors that affected investors' sentiments negatively such as fall in European banking stocks after rate hikes by central banks, continuous selling pressure by FIIs and STT hike on futures and options trade by Govt of India. Till March expiry, Nifty fell by 2% and closed at 17080 with total loss of 431 points that is indicating negative to neutral bias for short term. Geopolitical crisis, recession fears due to interest rate hikes, economic slowdown and higher inflation could be the key concerns in April series and investors would be extra cautions on higher side. On expiry day, Nifty futures rollover was 74% that is lower than the average of last three months of 77% that indicated short positions being carried forward. Nifty will start April series with an OI of 1.36 Cr shares compared to OI 1.13 crore shares at the start of the March series. In coming months, fourth quarter results, FII flow, RBI policy, global scenario, crude oil prices and geopolitical tensions will be key influencing factors in April.
